

Malaysia

Peninsular Malaysia offers a delicious range of attractions, from deserted white sandy beaches, colourful underwater kingdoms and virgin age-old tropical rainforests to majestic historical monuments, high-tech gleaming skyscrapers and traditional sleepy Kampong villages. Malaysia offers a breathtaking range of attractions for visitors to explore. See Kuala Lumpur from the dizzy heights of the Petronas Towers and explore the city's diverse cultural heritage which is plain to see as you wander among its mosques, temples and roam the streets of Chinatown, little India and Chow Kit market in search of the city's many flavours. To understand why this is now one of Asia's most vibrant cities, visit the Golden Triangle area with its tireless nightlife, luxury hotels, sophisticated restaurant scene and shopping centres full of designer boutiques.

When the hustle and bustle of the city gets too much, then head to the islands of Penang or Langkawi. Penang, with its fine beaches and diverse ethnic urban neighbourhoods are premier attractions. The Indian, Chinese and Malay communities of Penang have all contributed to the exotic flavour of the island. With its mixture of exciting cultural heritage, the food on Penang is a serious pursuit so be sure to sample the tasty offerings during your time at leisure.

If it is pure relaxation you are after, then you need to simply spend some time lazing under the shade of a swaying coconut tree on the picturesque Cenang beach on the island of Langkawi, where the temperature never strays far from 30 degrees. This tranquil island of paddy fields, rainforest and white sand is a perfect getaway location. Head up to the summit of Mount Mat Cincang in a cable car for views of the whole island, have a boat tour of the mangroves to see the monkeys and the bird life, visit the markets of the capital, Kuah, for some hawker cuisine or head off-shore to the coral gardens of nearby Pulau Payer Marine Park where you can swim with tropical fish and inquisitive coral sharks.

When to go

Malaysia's climate is tropical without extremely high temperatures. Days are very warm and often humid, while nights are cooler. The main rainy season in the east runs between November and February, while August is the wettest period on the west coast.
